since the meetings of the Spiritual Academy reopened in October, the well known psychic, Mrs.

lie E. Abbott of Lawrence, Mass., lectured and gave messages Sunday, Feb.
1, and Mrs. Vandorff on the 22d. She covered two discourses prepared by her husband, and Willard J. Hull of Chicago has been the speaker on the 29th.
Sundays and will continue to fill Mr.
Blinn's place until the close of the season on the last Sunday of May, with the exception of April 19, when George B. Carter of Boston will speak and give messages. As Mr. Carter is one of the best known public entertainers in the country arrangements have been made with him to remain over until Tuesday and give a public entertainment at the Spiritual Academy Monday evening.
The spring sale of the Helping Hands will be held during the first week of May instead of the week preceding Easter as it usually is. In no year in the history of the union have the cupids been so numerous. The union is in a most flourishing financial condition.

OBSERVING PASSOVER.
Services in Synagogues Will Begin
This Evening.

Hebrews in this city will begin at sundown this (Friday) evening the celebration of the feast of the passover or the Jewish Pesach. The Pesach observance will continue for eight days with services at the two local synagogues, two days and at the homes during the entire week. The Pesach services will begin Friday evening at the synagogues. At their close members will return to their homes, where the first of the home services will be held.
The members of the family seat themselves at the table with the father at the head in a special chair used only on this occasion. On the table are placed cups of salt water, bitter herbs, a shankbone, wine, parsley and the matzo, or unleavened bread which is used during the observance.
The dishes on the table at this feast must be new or at least never used during any other part of the year. The dishes must have four thicknesses of padding and be of linen only. Oil cloth or other substitutes for table covering are contrary to the laws of the religion.
Hebrews never live in boarding houses during the passover feast days.
If it is possible they always return to their homes for these days, but when this is impossible the family of the same faith that will allow them to board there during the eight days.
This is because there are observances which must be carried on only at the home.
When the members of the family return to their homes after the services at the synagogues, the observance of the feast continues. On the opening night of the passover the family gathers at the table and the youngest son asks the father four questions.
These concern the matzo, the lamb, the bitter herbs and the cup of wine.
The father answers them. The questions are of the same nature each year and are taught to the boys.

FINISHED HIS WORK.
Last Words of Jesus Told of Completed Task, Says Secretary Hill.
General Secretary Edwin Hill of the Y. M. C. A. addressed the shop meeting conducted at the Hopkins & Allen company Thursday noon.
It is interesting, he said, to note the last words of dying men. Oftentimes they indicate to some extent the characteristics of the life.
For instance, Lord Chesterfield was noted for his extreme politeness and courtesy, and his last words were
"I am now ready to be offered."
No man was ever more true to God than the great Apostle Paul; he was intense in his service for Christ, and it was his last words that he wrote shortly before he died as a martyr:
"I am now ready to be offered."
The time of my departure is at hand; I have fought the good fight, I have finished the course, I have kept the faith."
Dwight L. Moody emphasized much the reality of death, and was profound in his belief that he would know each other there, said in his last moments of consciousness: "I see before me a grandchild who has died, and I am rejoicing, heaven is opening, God is calling me." Jesus, the Christ, came into the world to effect redemption for the sins of men, and the close of his three years of ministry he was shamefully crucified, and as he hung there, bleeding, dying for the sins of the world, he said: "It is finished."
Jesus never left anything unfinished.
When he unstopped the deaf ears, the hearing was fully restored; when he opened the blind eyes, clear vision was the result; when he cleansed the leper, the flesh became like the flesh of a child, and so when he cried "It is finished," he effected a perfect and complete salvation.
It is so strange that men fail to respond to sacrifice of the Christ. If we ever keep before us the vision of Jesus on the cross and realized that he died for each one of us, surely we could not refrain from making Him the Lord of our lives.
